Home Fun

Letters and Literacy:

*Letter basketball-parent writes several different letters on scrap paper, places them in random pile on the floor; parent names the letter child finds the letter & crumples paper & tosses into waste basket; (parent records date this was done for child's sticker)

*Poke a letter-parent writes a letter on a small (like 3x5 size) paper; child names the letter & uses a tooth pick to poke holes through to "write the letter(s)" & then turns in.

Math Concepts:

* Child helps parent sort socks by lights & darks; Child counts how many of each color & writes down the number then circles which has more

*"War" or high/low-parent & child use a regular deck of cards with face cards removed. Pass out deck face down; each player keeps their cards in a stack, revealing 1 card at a time; player holding higher numbered card keeps cards
